

Ólafur Arnalds, Bonobo - Loom

Last year Bonobo and I spent a couple of days in the studio, after traveling and camping together in the Icelandic highlands, with no intention other than to spend some quality time with music.

Loom is one of the songs that came from those sessions and as time passed, and I started writing the rest of the album, I kept coming back to it.

The serene energy of the song is perfectly encapsulated in Neels's beautiful video — a true testament to getting lost in the moment, as we did.
