

J: Hi Max how are you? Why are you here? I AM ASKING you because I know you hate coming to the malls

M: Hi John. Nice to see you. I haven't met you ~~in~~ FOR a while. ~~It's true.~~ YOU'RE RIGHT I hate going shopping , especially in places like these. ~~I'm here because~~ To tell the truth, I have to buy a shirt to play tennis. Buying clothing online is always a problem. I wouldn't have come if it ~~wasn't~~ HADN't BEEN strictly necessary. I'm fine enough and you?

J: Everything's ok. I'm here too because I'm looking for something to give my nephew for his birthday.

M: Are you in a hurry? Would you like some tea or coffee?

J: A tea? ~~What happens to you?~~ What's the matter? I only drink tea if I have a stomachache. It's almost noon ~~so we can have~~ what about an aperitif? I think I'll have a glass of white wine, instead.

M: ~~Ok for the aperitif~~ Great idea! Let's go to the wine shop further on. By now they will also have prepared some snacks.

J: Do you ~~always~~ STILL play tennis?

M: Yes. Two or three times a week. It is my ~~great~~ passion. What ~~do you do?~~ are you doing? ~~Do you~~ Are you still going out on your bike during this period?

J: No. It's too cold. ~~I go for a walking and on~~ AT the weekend I generally go skiing.

M: How is it in the mountains? ~~There's snow?~~ Is it snowing there?

J: Not a lot, but enough ~~for skiing~~ TO SKI. It is quite cold and therefore they use artificial snow on the slopes.

M: ~~You have heard~~ HAVE YOU HEARD ~~that in June~~ Vasco will be back on a tour in June and he will also be singING in Udine?

J: Wow! Still on tour. At the age of seventy is he still in force to face a series of concerts? Great.

M: Do you remember when we saw ~~it~~ HIM in Udine in 1991? There were 50,000 ~~of us~~ people.

J: I remember it well. What a night. Unforgettable. Since then, every tour has been a huge crowd and a new record breaking.

M: You're right. He is a rock star who has been loved for three / four generations now. Incredible. Vasco, I always ~~gladly~~ listen to him with pleasure. A Timeless music, HIS. Good for me, for my children and perhaps ~~also~~ for future grandchildren, too.

J: DO you know if ~~they have already opened~~ the ticket sales have already opened? Do you want us to go?

M: Very gladly. Later, I will ~~see~~ CHECK if it is already possible to buy tickets online.

J: ~~Good.~~ Well!

M: What are you doing on Saturday night? ~~Do you want us to go~~ What about going out for a beer?

J: One? ~~but who believes it~~ Are you joking? Let's go to Slovenia. I discovered a place where they sell craft beers

M: Ok. I'll call on you ~~pass by~~ in Cormons at 8.00 pm

J: ~~Very well.~~ That's settled, then. See you on Saturday

M. Bye!
