

February 18th, 2008. Teaching Children To Think.

Today's session is devoted to reflection on Robert Fisher's Teaching Children to Think. Students are asked to present to peers the result of their personal work on the book so that at the end of the session there will be a shared discussion and reflection on the problem discussed.

Some resources are also offered for further thinking:

- Teaching Thinking and Creativity
- Talking to Think: Why Children Need Philosophical Discussion

Also A. A. Milne as prolific writer, together with some extracts from A.A. Milne's stories will be presented for class and individual reading:

- Pooh Goes Visiting
- Tigger Comes to the Forest
- Tiggers Don't Climb Trees

Study Questions